

Energy & Natural Resources

Since the earliest days of the firm, Liskow & Lewis has served clients engaged in every facet of the energy and natural resources industries.

Overview

Widely recognized for playing a central role in the development of mineral law along the U.S. Gulf Coast, today our lawyers assist clients engaged in virtually every facet of energy, including exploration, production, marketing, financing, and transportation.

The firm is acknowledged by industry leaders, peers, and clients for delivering exceptional counsel and service. For example, Chambers USA 2018 awarded Liskow & Lewis esteemed first-band rankings in the state of Louisiana in the areas of Energy & Natural Resources, Environment, and Litigation: General Commercial. In 2016, US News & Best Lawyers, named Liskow & Lewis Oil & Gas "Law Firm of the Year."

Our energy and natural resources lawyers provide regulatory advice, transactional counsel, and handle high-stakes litigation. From the day-to-day opportunities of a dynamic marketplace, to many of the industry's most high-profile moments, trials and appeals, clients benefit from deep experience. The firm's collaborative infrastructure is designed to match a client's need with the lawyer or team that will deliver the highest value. In fact, long before legal project management and alternative fee arrangements became popular topics, we were addressing individual matters and entire portfolios in ways designed to meet the business realities of our clients.

The firm's energy and natural resources capabilities include both a transactional and a comprehensive litigation focus.
